

// What is ESPON Targeted Analysis?

Zintis Hermansons,
ESPON EGTC

How does it work?

1

Stakeholders develop and submit their project proposals

2

ESPON EGTC evaluates the proposals and selects a few

3

ESPON EGTC develops the selected proposal into ToRs together with stakeholders

4

Open call for tenders to find academic experts

5

Stakeholders can apply the results in their policy development processes

6

Academic experts carry out the analytical work and stay in close connection with the stakeholders

Twice a year: next deadline for the submission of stakeholder proposals is on June 22, 2018.

Who can apply?

- Stakeholders and practitioners from national, regional and local administrations of EU Member States and the four ESPON Partner States.
- Authorities implementing EU funded programmes, e.g. Managing Authorities and programme secretariats.
- Stakeholders can consider involving representatives of organisations from public and/or private sector.
- Applying as a group increases the likelihood of being selected.

What are the general requirements for stakeholder proposals?

- Presence of European perspective/dimension in the targeted analysis
- Degree of added value and transferability
- Realism in analytical terms
- Use of the analytical results in policy making
- Relevance for place-based development strategies
- Competent involvement of stakeholders in the analytical process and in steering of the activity
- Relevance and complementarity to existing ESPON territorial evidence

Co-financed by the European Regional Development Fund

Inspire Policy Making with Territorial Evidence

// Thank you

Zintis Hermansons, ESPON EGTC